Ernesto Jose Garateix CEO & Director

Thank you, Kirk. Good afternoon, everyone, and thank you for joining us today. To start, our thoughts and support are with the many people who were impacted by the devastating hurricanes that affected so many communities across the Southeast. This has been a difficult storm season that has left millions with significant damage and loss.

At Heritage, we are working tirelessly to support our policyholders and communities to ensure they have the necessary resources to quickly rebuild. I am especially proud of our employees from across our company who have been providing a rapid response to our value policyholders, as well as hundreds of adjusters and emergency service providers that we have in the field to support our customers daily. To ensure we are offering the support that our policyholders expect, we track a series of metrics to ensure our operational effectiveness.

As an example, at 21 days following Hurricane Milton, we received 6,352 claims with the average wait time for policyholders calling in their claims of under 1 minute. We had over 230 employees throughout our footprint, taking first notice of loss calls, while we also have over 200 vendors ready and responding to emergency services. I would like to thank our employees, many of whom themselves were impacted by the hurricanes for their incredible efforts during this challenging time. Their commitment to our policyholders has been remarkable and a testament to the culture at Heritage.

While I am proud of our support to our policyholders, I am also very proud of our financial results, which clearly demonstrates the successful execution of our strategic initiatives that I laid out when I was appointed CEO of Heritage, 3 years ago. Our initiatives have been focused on achieving rate adequacy, enhancing our underwriting discipline and allocating capital to drive growth and returns as we strive to deliver solid financial results. Through these efforts, we have positioned Heritage to absorb a full retention loss while maintaining profitability and delivering results to our shareholders.

Looking at our third quarter results in more detail, we have achieved net income of $8.2 million or $0.27 per share, which is a sharp improvement from a year ago third quarter where our results produced a net income loss of $7.4 million or a 28% loss per share. Importantly, our current quarter results include approximately $48 million of hurricane losses from Debbie and Helen. On a year-to-date basis, we achieved net income of $41.2 million or $1.35 per share, representing a strong increase from our 2023 net 9-month net income of $14.4 million or $0.55 per share.

Our ability to maintain profitability in the face of significant catastrophe losses is the result of a multiyear effort where we have focused on executing our underwriting and rate adequacy initiatives. From an underwriting perspective, we continue to strategically reduce our exposures in over-concentrated and unprofitable areas, while increasing our presence in profitable geographies and products. This disciplined underwriting approach resulted in a further policy count reduction of just over 66,000 policies or 14.2% throughout our footprint compared to the third quarter of 2023, while our premium in force increased by $80.6 million or 6%. As we have discussed on prior earnings calls, we expect declining policies to moderate over the next few quarters as we open territories for new business while maintaining our underwriting discipline.

We have also maintained a stable indemnity-based reinsurance program at manageable costs through our policy count and exposure management initiatives, while also proactively engaging with our reinsurance partners. In fact, we met with 28 of our reinsurance partners just prior to Hurricane Milton making landfall, each of whom reiterated their continued support of Heritage both near and long term. Turning to our rate adequacy initiatives.

These efforts have resulted in a significant rate increases, which are earning through our portfolio in 2024. As evidenced by our growing unearned premium balance. Looking to 2025, we anticipate an even more meaningful amount of rate to earn through our portfolio. which we expect will provide a healthy tailwind to our financial results. More importantly, we have selectively started writing Personal Lines business throughout our footprint as we pivot our strategy to one of controlled growth, anchored by our continued focus on risk management and stringent underwriting. This is an important change in our strategy, given that we significantly curtailed writing Personal Lines new business beginning in 2022.

Over this period of time, we have been growing our top line through organic growth in our commercial residential portfolio and our E&S products combined with the rate action that we have taken in our Personal Lines portfolio. Additionally, recent legislative changes in Florida are having a positive impact on the economics of writing new profitable business in the state. In fact, we believe Hurricane Milton will further demonstrate that the legislative changes will mitigate frivolous lawsuits, shorten the claim closure cycle and bring more reinsurers back to the market. Taken together, we expect our improved rate to continue to earn-in through 2025 and the headwind from our policy reduction efforts to mitigate through the first half of 2025, and our new business production to continue to ramp up through the year ahead. We believe we have the foundation in place to deliver solid profitable growth in 2025 as we execute our Controlled Growth Strategy.

Our EMS business has been a growth lever for Heritage. as in-force premiums grew nearly $25 million or 116% as compared to the year ago third quarter as we continue to write this business in California, Florida and South Carolina. What makes this business so attractive? Is that we can more nimbly adjust our rates and coverages to the changing dynamics state by state, to ensure we continue to earn appropriate risk-adjusted returns. Looking forward, we plan to continue to evaluate more states for E&S opportunities as we focus on our controlled growth strategy.

Importantly, we remain resolute in maintaining a balanced and diversified portfolio as no single state represents over 30% of our total insured value. This selective diversification helps reduce performance volatility and ensures our long-term stability, which we believe will be reflected in the value of our company over time. We remain committed to maintaining our focus on disciplined growth, operational excellence and effective capital management. Importantly, our strategic initiatives are yielding the positive results, as evidenced by our ability to remain profitable to a challenging cat season.

Looking forward, I remain optimistic as we pivot to our Controlled Growth Strategy designed to prudently accelerate premium growth while maintaining our margins. To conclude, I would like to reiterate our dedication to navigating the complexities of the market with a strategic focus that prioritizes long-term profitability and shareholder value driven by our dedicated workforce. Kirk, over to you.

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Thank you, Ernie, and good afternoon, everyone. As Ernie highlighted, our results this quarter reflect the success of our strategic initiatives. Starting with our financial highlights.

We reported net income of $8.2 million or $0.27 per diluted share compared to a net loss of $7.4 million or a loss of $0.28 per diluted share in the prior year quarter. The increase in net income was driven by the positive impact of our rate actions, our underwriting actions and our targeted exposure management taken over the last several years, which continue to favorably impact our results. Demonstrating the improvement to the portfolio and to put that into context, in the third quarter of 2022, with Hurricane Ian, we incurred a full $40 million retention loss and reported a net loss in the quarter of $48 million. In 2023, with the Maui Fires and Hurricane Idalia, we also had $40 million of cat losses and reported a $7 million net loss in the quarter.

While this year, we sustained $48 million of cat losses in the quarter with Hurricanes Debbie and Helen and reported net income of $8 million. Our total revenues for the quarter were $211.9 million, up 13.7% from $186.3 million in the prior year quarter. This increase was driven by the increase in net earned premiums and investment income. Gross premiums earned rose to $354.2 million, up 5.1% from $337 million in the prior year quarter, reflecting our strategic focus on rate adequacy and organic growth in our commercial residential line.

Net premiums earned increased to $198.8 million, up 12.6% from $176.6 million in the prior year quarter as the growth in gross premiums earned outpaced the increase in ceded premiums. Our strategic focus on expanding profitable products and markets includes the organic growth of our Commercial Residential business for which we selectively increased the premium in force by 23.6% compared to the third quarter of 2023, while the total insured value only increased by 9.5%. The Commercial Residential business tends to have lower attritional losses while generating material higher average premiums. This segment now accounts for 21.4% of our total in force premium compared to 18.4% in the prior year period.

Overall, we are in a strong financial position and backed by a $1.3 billion reinsurance tower for the Southeast. We experienced the Hurricanes Debbie and Helen during the third quarter with a combined loss of $48.7 million with Debbie being a much smaller storm. We expect gross losses from Hurricane Milton to possibly reach into the third layer of our reinsurance tower, which starts at $450 million and goes to $914 million. We continue to maintain a robust level of reinsurance coverage through year-end 2024, while the strategic actions we have taken over the last 3 years have helped to mitigate our losses from significant events like the 3 recent Hurricanes.

Our net investment income, inclusive of realized gains, losses and impairment for the quarter was $9.8 million, an increase of 42% from $6.9 million in the prior year quarter. This increase reflects our actions to align the investments with the yield curve while maintaining a high-quality portfolio of short-duration assets. The net loss ratio for the quarter improved to 65.4%, an improvement of 9 points from the 74.4% in the same quarter last year, reflecting higher net premiums earned, coupled with slightly lowered net losses and LAE. The reduction in net losses in LAE was driven primarily by a reduction of attritional losses, which was partially offset by higher weather losses and adverse development.

Net weather losses for the current accident quarter were $63 million, an increase of $11.4 million from $51.6 million in the prior year quarter. Catastrophe losses in the quarter were $48.7 million compared to $40.1 million in the prior year quarter. Other weather losses totaled $14.3 million, an increase in the prior year quarter amount of $11.5 million. Additionally, the net loss ratio was impacted by net unfavorable loss development of $6.3 million during the third quarter of 2024, compared to net unfavorable loss of $800,000 in the third quarter of 2023.

We have continued to see favorable trends in the current year loss costs attributable to the legislative changes made in Florida and the improvements in our underlying portfolio across all 16 states in which we conduct business. We continue to evaluate each state on an ongoing basis to make adjustments as necessary to maintain rate adequacy and improved underwriting results. Our net expense ratio for the quarter was 35.2%, a decrease of 1.2 points from 36.4% in the prior year's quarter. The decrease was driven primarily by the increase in net premiums earned, which offset higher policy acquisition costs. The net combined ratio for the quarter was 100.6%, down 10.2 points from 110.8% in the prior year quarter, driven by the lower net loss ratio and lower net expense ratio.

Turning to our balance sheet. We ended the quarter with total assets of $2.4 billion and shareholders' equity of $279.3 million. Our book value per share increased to $9.10, up 61.1% from $5.65 in the prior year quarter. The increase from the comparable quarter of 2023 is primarily attributable to net income, as well as a reduction in unrealized losses on the company's fixed income securities portfolio. The remaining unrealized losses are attributable to interest rates and not to credit risk. The reduction in unrealized losses is correspondingly driven by the recent decline in interest rates. We expect unrealized losses will continue to decline, as bonds mature but recognize that changing interest rates will impact unrealized losses or gains.

The average rating of our portfolio is AA- with a duration of 3.19 years, as we have extended the portfolio's duration to take advantage of higher yields further out on the yield curve, while still maintaining a short duration, high credit quality portfolio. Our annualized return on equity for the quarter was 12.2%, an improvement of 31.2 points from a negative 19% in the prior year quarter, reflecting our improved profitability and effective capital management. In terms of capital management, our Board of Directors has decided to continue the suspension of the quarterly dividend. This decision aligns with our strategy to support our long-term growth initiatives with related robust returns on equity. We will continue to value dividend distribution and stock repurchase strategies on a quarterly basis.

Looking ahead, we remain focused on executing our strategic initiatives and to driving shareholder value. We believe that our proactive approach to managing exposure, enhancing rate adequacy and investing in technology and infrastructure will position us well for continued success. Lastly, we are excited to embark on the next phase of our strategic initiatives as we initiate our Controlled Growth Strategy and begin writing Personal Lines policies in the Southeast and Northeast. We expect these to have a positive impact on our earnings as we look to the year ahead. Thank you for your time today. Operator, we are now ready for questions.

Question and Answer

Operator

[Operator Instructions] The first question today comes from Mark Hughes with Truist.

Mark Douglas Hughes

Truist Securities, Inc., Research Division

Thank you. Good morning, good afternoon. The loss ratio, excluding the weather, excluding the cats, was really striking, and particularly when you take into account the value of your development, you talked quite a bit on the call about the initiatives that you've undertaken to help achieve that and the regulatory help. Is this level -- is this sustainable? Is this a new normal? How much of this was just a -- had a pretty good quarter aside from the major events? Or is this kind of the starting point that we -- think about other factors that might drive it going ahead?

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Yes. Mark thank you, great question. I think it's a little of both -- I mean, when you look at -- I mean, it was typically -- the third quarter is a pretty good quarter followed by the fourth quarter, which is typically our best quarter in the year. But we are seeing some very favorable trends on the attritional loss ratio -- the underwriting actions we've taken, the rating actions we've taken over the last several years on top of the legislative reforms are having a very favorable impact on our results.

So we think that -- there is a bit of favorability in the third quarter, but it is more close to a new norm, I think, as we go forward as far as kind of how we're looking at it from a profitability standpoint.

Mark Douglas Hughes

Truist Securities, Inc., Research Division

Right. Okay. How about -- you talked about the rate momentum as you earn that or continue to earn that through. How much more of a tailwind is there? You've taken a lot of rate actions and considering the trajectory of those and how much has already been earned through? Where are we in that process of -- having a flow through the P&L?

Ernesto Jose Garateix

CEO & Director

Yes, Mark, this is Ernie. So there's quite a bit still to come in 2025 that we plan for. But the one thing I'll make a comment about is we're always looking in each of the geographies and products and make sure they're rate adequate. So that's always going to be an ongoing effort.

And again, we've said this over the earnings call, we're going to aim to be profitable in every single state in which we do business, and under the products that we offer there. So there's a constantly looking at those rate adequacy products to make sure they are adding to the bottom line.

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

And Mark, to give you an idea just as far as the tailwind, we are expecting more earned rate coming through in '25 than we had in '24.

Mark Douglas Hughes

Truist Securities, Inc., Research Division

Right. More on an absolute basis coming through in '25, right?

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Correct.

Mark Douglas Hughes

Truist Securities, Inc., Research Division

Not necessarily a rate of change or just on an absolute basis?

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Correct. Yes.

Mark Douglas Hughes

Truist Securities, Inc., Research Division

And then what do you see as the more attractive geographies at this point? You've got a lot to choose from seemingly -- how do you view Florida versus the Northeast or other markets?

Ernesto Jose Garateix

CEO & Director

So we do take that floor again with the legislative changes and then -- the rate adequacy is attractive to us. But again, we look at the Northeast as well. The Northeast has been taking rate in New York, New Jersey and other states are there. So those are getting closer to rate adequacy and then looking at doing -- bringing some more business up there.

But again, the overall theme is looking at rate adequacy and having a managed diversified portfolio across, and that gives us plenty of options.

Operator

The next question comes from Paul Newsome with Piper Sandler.

Jon Paul Newsome

Piper Sandler & Co., Research Division

I was hoping you could give us a little bit more details on the reserve development -- just exit year sources, it's a little bit -- I think, in contrast with the fact that looks like -- [in total function] maybe reserves go the other way potentially -- additional color would be fantastic.

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Yes. I appreciate that. And that actually has to do with Irma, which, I mean, again, we only have a couple of hundred claims remaining to basically get that thing completely sold. However, just due to the legal environment that those fall under that there is some volatility still associated with some of those. So that is really the biggest driver of that -- actually it's almost all of it is -- just hurricane Irma.

Jon Paul Newsome

Piper Sandler & Co., Research Division

Is there any concern or should we be watching for any potential reinstatement premiums related to [indiscernible] if it creeps into certain layers?

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Yes. We've actually already included that in the latest estimate there as far as when we indicated the -- we anticipated about $57 million for [indiscernible] -- type of stuff. That included kind of the retention and then plus reinstatement premiums.

Jon Paul Newsome

Piper Sandler & Co., Research Division

And then so -- also, are there any potential for unrelated claim management fees related to the hurricanes that become -- more in the fourth quarter?

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Say again -- can you repeat that? The claim management fees...

Jon Paul Newsome

Piper Sandler & Co., Research Division

Sometimes the other income includes revenues and gained off of fee management claims, essentially you're doing it for the reinsurers -- that can be a little bit of an offset. Is there anything in there potentially for the fourth quarter?

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Yes. Paul. Good question on that. I mean there could be some, but it's not going to be material.

Operator

[Operator Instructions] This concludes our question-and-answer session. I would like to turn the conference back over for any closing remarks.

Kirk Howard Lusk

CFO & Treasurer

Thank you again for joining the call today. We hope everyone has a great afternoon.

Operator

The conference has now concluded. Thank you for attending today's presentation. You may now disconnect.
